

2006 Editor's Report, Plant Science Bulletin

Volume 51

1. Four issues, 156 pages, were published on schedule with press runs of 3800 copies.
2. Feature articles included:
 - The Native Plant Conservation Campaign – The National Advocacy Network for Native Plant Science and Conservation.
 - Lady Bird Johnson Wildflower Center
 - The Botanical Research Institute of Texas (BRIT)
 - Reinventing Plant Biology
 - Plants Are Indeed Intelligent
 - What Are We Teaching In Our Introductory Courses?
- 100th Anniversary Series
 - Katherine Esau: A Personal Perspective
 - Harriet B. Creighton: Proud Botanist
3. Summaries of the Forum Plenary Address , “Is It Cool To Know And Do Science? Can We Create A Scientific Temper? Linking Scientists, College Faculty, K-12 Teachers and Their Students in Collaborative Research” by Barbara Schulz, The National Academies Teacher Advisory Council. And the Plenary Address, “Returning Biodiversity Knowledge and Information to Society: The Case of Mexico” by José Sarukhán, National Autonomous University of Mexico were published along with the President Elect’s address: “The Power of Plants: Building Collaborations among Educational Institutions, Botanical Gardens and Communities” by Ed Schneider, Santa Barbara Botanical Garden.
4. 74 books were received for review; 54 reviews were published.

Volume 52

1. Two issues, 76 pages, have been published on schedule. Fall issue is in preparation.
2. Feature articles included:
 - Truman State University’s Solar Clock Garden
 - 100th Anniversary Series
 - C.J.A. – The Last Mycologist Who Was BSA President.
 - Adriance Sherwood Foster: An Academic Grandchild Remembers
3. A total of 35 books were received for review, 18 reviews were published.

Individuals interested in submitting feature articles or in suggesting future article topics should contact the editor.

Respectfully Submitted,
Marsh Sundberg, Editor,
Plant Science Bulletin