Our Marketing Approach

On behalf of the Botanical Society of America, our marketing activities reflect tactics and tools used to achieve the aims and objectives set forth for American Journal of Botany and Applications in Plant Sciences through our ongoing discussion and data analysis. Each marketing initiative outlined below contributed to achieving our shared goals for the Botanical Society of America and its journals.

Your 2018 objectives

At the start of the year, we agreed upon the following marketing objectives and priorities for the American Journal of Botany:

- Engage with authors and encourage submissions
- Increase brand awareness
- Grow readership

In 2018, through ongoing data analysis, discussion, and collaboration with you, we have achieved these objectives using a carefully selected series of marketing tools and tactics. Outlined below are some of the key initiatives used to promote the American Journal of Botany.

Innovative Marketing Strategy

Focusing on the needs of researchers, we are tailoring our communications and strategies to engage and enable them to achieve high readership and create maximum impact with their work. The ways we are doing this include:

Author Engagement Initiatives

Email Campaigns

The ability to attract and retain more of the top authors in the field is a priority for long-term success of the American Journal of Botany. Our marketing efforts support this goal through actively targeting authors, encouraging them to submit—and keep submitting—their best work to the American Journal of Botany. Efforts to reach Testing and experimentation: To continually deliver an effective marketing service, we have introduced multiple campaign pilots in which we trial new ideas on a small scale. If effective, we recommend these campaigns to partners sharing similar marketing objectives and invest in resources to amplify their success. For example, we are currently implementing a pilot campaign that congratulates authors whose articles have been selected as Editor's Choice in a recently published issue on Wiley Online Library, with the aim of helping to nurture author relationships.

Delivering value to your authors and readers: We are actively finding new ways to deliver the most relevant and useful content to your authors and readers. By creating and distributing infographics, videos, and blogposts aimed at your target audience, we can increase your journal's readership and engagement. We also utilize multi-email campaigns, creating customized journeys tailored to author and reader needs and tailoring future messaging using the content they engaged with in earlier emails to ensure that promoted content is relevant.

New data analytics and targeting capabilities: Using new technology, we now capture more data about your authors and readers, enabling us to better target a specific audience and communicate only the most relevant information that, in turn, generates greater engagement results for your marketing campaigns. For example, we can create a list of authors who have published research on a specific topic in competing journals and contact them about your journal's submissions initiatives.

Tailoring the message: We have conducted extensive research to better understand the values of different types of researchers, authors, and librarians. This insight allows us to develop outreach strategies with the most relevant content that appeal directly to the individual. We can apply our research and collaborate on developing unique messaging to showcase the reasons the authors you want to attract should submit to your journal.

Supporting society marketing: As a publishing partner, we are developing a range of toolkits and whitepapers to support your society initiatives, including resources for member engagement, advocacy opportunities, conference planning, and social media best practices. For example, our Member Resources hub provides eight ways to engage and inspire your members and build a strong community.

Open Access Promotion

With the changing publishing landscape, Open Access has become increasingly important for authors. We promote this publishing option to the American Journal of Botany's authors in the following ways:

Marketing

- Web Banners
 Displayed on Wiley Online Library pages, the banners educate authors on the benefits of publishing Open Access and promote the Open Access publishing option.
- Email Campaigns
 Emails to inform authors of the option to publish their research Open Access and highlight the benefits of Open Access publishing.
- Open Access Week
 A dedicated week in October where Wiley promotes publishing Open Access in the journals offering the flexibility to choose Open Access. Activities include promotion through blog posts and a social media campaign.

As a result of our combined efforts to attract top authors, we saw the following submission trends for the journal: there have been 39 Open Access articles published in 2018.

Author Workshops & Webinars

We offer a variety of workshops and webinars aimed at providing authors with expert advice on a broad range of publishing topics, from writing a scientific article and increasing discoverability to understanding peer review and publishing ethics.

Promotion of Author Services

The Author Services platform, where authors can track the performance of their articles, is promoted through multi-email marketing campaigns as well as targeted advertising using Search Engine Optimization strategies. New platform features being developed include the addition of article-level metrics and Altmetric scores to the Dashboard, with fully redesigned and seamless user journeys.

Initiatives	Results
Author Transition Email Campaign Authors from your journal were informed of the transition to Wiley as publisher. They were also introduced to Wiley Author Services and other resources like our promotional toolkit, access to Altmetric and Kudos, and eTOC alerts.	The first email in the campaign had a Unique Open Rate of 35.33%, while the second email deployed to non-responders had a Unique Open Rate of 16.48%. The follow-up email sent to responders of both messages had a Unique Open Rate of 61.57%, well above the industry benchmark of 20%.

BSA Member and Author Survey

We sent out a survey to BSA members and AJB authors to ascertain their satisfaction with the journal. The survey inquired about readership, membership, reputation of the journal, and reasons for publishing in the journal and writing review papers.

The survey was sent to 5,849 authors and members, and we collected 764 responses. 94.37% of respondents reported reading articles published in AJB, and many respondents praised the quality and reputation of the journal.

Search Engine Optimization (SEO) and Discoverability Initiatives

Search engines are the primary route for access to your content. Wiley's team of dedicated SEO marketers works closely with Google and other search engine platforms to ensure high-ranking search results for every article published on Wiley Online Library.

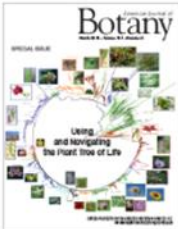

We continually optimize features and content on your journal homepage to comply with current recommendations for discoverability so you're easy to search and find. The result is a better user experience for your audience, more traffic to your homepage, and greater readership from organic search.

Using, Navigating, and Exploring the Plant Tree of Life
Joint Virtual Issue

This collection compiles papers from two companion special issues on the plant tree of life published in the Botanical Society of America's journals, the American Journal of Botany and Applications in Plant Sciences. These two issues, titled "Using and Navigating the Plant Tree of Life" and "Methods for Exploring the Plant Tree of Life," respectively, illustrate the incredible progress and promise of big trees and big data in the study of the green plant tree of life, highlighting outstanding challenges that will be fruitful avenues for future research. The advancements that have been made in this field have been substantive and rapid, and the future affords enormous new opportunities for plant researchers.

Read the latest issue of American Journal of Botany for free until July 9th.

Importantly, much of this tremendous progress continues to be attributable to the collaborative spirit of this community, a trend that started with the first attempts decades ago to reconstruct green plant phylogeny on a major scale.

It is an exciting time to be a plant evolutionary biologist!
